Short term water fixes in place

By MICHAEL DANIELS

As of Monday evening things were back to normal at the faucet end of the Bethel Water District.

District trustees lifted the last of the usage restrictions that had been imposed on July 12, after overnight flash flooding knocked out the Chapman Brook reservoir, the system's main source of water.

The flooding filled the 16-foot-deep reservoir, located in the woods approximately a mile north of Angevine Park, with gravel, rocks and downed trees.

The brook that fed the reservoir (and had provided water to Bethel for more than a century) had jumped its banks in several places during the previous night's heavy rains, and cut deeply into layers of clay and silt.

Estimated cost of repairs:

— not including watershed restoration.

Possible new well as source:

$1.8 million.

As a result, even the water that still flowed in the brook was not potable, due to the high level of turbidity.

That Thursday district trustees responded by calling for "extreme conservation" on the part of users, and by aggressively seeking new short-term sources of water.

Initially 8,000-gallon tanker trucks were used to keep the district's half-million gallon underground holding tank on Paradise Street at least partially filled.

By that weekend a small stream running near Chapman Brook was impounded and tapped into the system.

And the following Friday a well at the Douglass gravel

Summer on G&W ponds roiled by milfoil, water-level concerns

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Milfoil has been found in Round Pond.

The discovery, and its implications for North, South and Round ponds, will be the focus of the Aug 4 annual meeting of the Community Lakes Association of Greenwood and Woodstock.

The highly invasive plant was spotted over the weekend by camp owner Mike Giunta, and the identification was confirmed Tuesday by Nancy Willard, president of the Lakes Association.

The plant found is the variable-leaf variety of milfoil.

The University of Maine Cooperative Extension describes the plant and its impact on waterways as follows:

"Variable-leaf milfoil is an aggressive aquatic plant that can form dense mats that congest waterways and crowd out native aquatic plants."

"Thick growth of this plant can impair recreational uses of waterways including boating, swimming and fishing. Dense growth of variable-leaf milfoil degrades the native habitat of fish and other wildlife, and may also provide breeding areas for mosquitoes."

"The main method of dispersal of this plant appears to be fragmentation. Plant fragments are moved around by people [primarily by boats and motors], animals and water currents."

"Once established, invasive aquatic plants are extremely difficult to eradicate," the service notes on its website. "Control has been attempted with water level manipulations, mechanical control and herbicides. In most cases these plants have survived attempts at control."

QB Grogan, kicker Smith among Pats expected here

By ALISON ALOISIO

A New England Patriots kicker who booted a snowplow-assisted game-winning field goal and the quarterback who got him within range to do it will be in Bethel Aug. 18.

Fans who appreciate the history of the team can spend the day with Steve Grogan and John Smith, and eight other former players.

The Patriots "alumni" will participate in a fundraiser to benefit youth football in the area.

The event will include a flag football game at Telstar between the former players and local coaches; a discussion between young players and the Pats in the auditorium; an autograph session in the cafeteria; and an evening social hour/dinner/forum at the Summit Ballroom at Sunday River.

Grogan and Smith played for the team in the 1970s and 1980s.

Smith is known for his kick during the "snowplow game"

Route 2 work set to resume in September

By ALISON ALOISIO

Despite the state's — and MDOT's — budget problems, another phase of improvement work on Route 2 between Bethel and Gilead is expected to get underway in September.

Earlier phases took place in 2004 and 2005.

This fall's work will start about two miles west of the Pleasant River and end just east of the river, according to Jim Ferguson, project manager.

"There will be about 26,000 cubic yards of rock/ledge removed to complete this section of roadway," said Ferguson.

The section of road is known

Bright new flags now entice visitors into village

By ALISON ALOISIO

Fourteen new vertical flags proclaiming "Welcome to Maine's Most Beautiful Mountain Village — Bethel" now hang from utility poles along the main village entrances.

The flags went up last week in an effort to "give a sense of arrival" for visitors approaching Bethel, in the words of Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's Village Task Force subcommittee raised funds to purchase the flags, she said.

The town contributed $1,000.

A dozen flags hang between Davis Park and the bottom of Main Street. The other two were placed on Route 2 along the ramp exit to Bethel, just west of the village.

The flags feature a panel of flowers set against a dark red background.

They were placed on the poles by Brad Corson of Oxford Networks.

Flowers not practical
Bethel businesses have long had concerns that tourists traveling Route 26 north simply turn right on the Parkway and never know the village is just ahead of them.

Last year, with a similar purpose in mind, the chamber hung flower pots on the utility poles from Davis Park through Main Street.

OVERFLIGHT MISINFORMATION

To the Editor:

It amazes and irritates me to read so much misinformation relative to the proposed changes in the low-level training flights in western Maine, particularly when the supposed dangers are blown so far out of proportion. Some of these people apparently do not believe anything said by someone in the military. First, the proposed changes are so minor that there should be no need for hearings. Why?

Air Force aircraft have been flying low-level training routes at 500 feet above ground level (AGL) for more than 45 years; some of these routes are or were in Maine. I know because I was on B-52 crews, and we flew many of these routes on nearly every training flight I was on, beginning when I was first assigned to these aircraft in 1961. Of my 2,000-plus hours of B-52 flight time, many were at 500 feet AGL. Aircraft and missions have changed since then, but the need for training at low altitude has not. In those 45 years, I have not heard of one person on the ground in Maine being injured or any forest fires started by this type of training anywhere in the state. I have also not noticed that any tourists have been discouraged from coming here. Furthermore, almost everybody I have talked to about low-level jets zooming over is thrilled to see/hear them go by.

The only things that are changing in this area are that the training routes are being eliminated and the Air National Guard wants to open the areas to low-level operations over most of the Condor 1 and 2 areas for improved low-level interceptor training. At the same time there will be fewer flights in these areas because most of the aircraft that have previously been using them have been or are being transferred to other areas of the country. While there may be upwards of 350 individual sorties (a sortie is a flight by a single aircraft), in actuality, fighters nearly always train in flights of multiples of two aircraft, usually two to eight aircraft per mission. This brings the number of missions, or incursions by flights of aircraft down to about 50 per year, according to the briefing I attended. This works out to about one mission per week.

As for one lady's assertion that the aircraft altimeters don't function well at 500 feet AGL, all I can say is that she must have misunderstood or was fed a real bucket of hogwash. Even the old 1950's vintage B-52s and F-105s I flew in had accurate altimeters and terrain following radars that allowed us to fly safely at 500 feet AGL both day and night, unless you were being shot at. Later military and commercial aircraft nearly all have a pilot's "head up display," or HUD which projects flight instrument information directly on the windscreens so the pilot can read the instruments while he is looking outside the cockpit.

Flying at 500 feet AGL is not a big deal for pilots who train for this type of flying on a regular basis, and the danger to anyone on the ground is negligible. The biggest reason that interceptors need this training is that target aircraft flying at very low altitudes are more difficult to see on radar, and aircrews need practice in order to distinguish target aircraft radar reflections from reflections of other objects on the ground (i.e., buildings, hills, ledges and the like).

Finally, at the briefing I attended, the briefing officer stated that "air combat maneuvering" (ACM) or what is commonly referred to as "dog fighting" is prohibited below 7,000 feet AGL by the Operations Order for safety reasons.

I would just like to let everyone know that I am gaining a little each day. I have had surgery for fractures of both legs and have two broken ribs. It will be a few months before I can bear weight on either leg.

I am working on building up my arm strength to be able to transfer myself in and out of bed from and to a wheelchair.

LOONS ACTING, WELL ...

To the Editor:

If you have been in the Bethel area for the month of July you know it has been unseasonably cool. The morning of July 2 at 5 a.m. it was 44 degrees Fahrenheit on the lake; that's cool for July. Because of the cool temperatures and lack of sun, the lake has been staying down in the low 70s, which again is low for this time of year.

This may be what has some of the waterfowl acting very strange. For about a week and almost every day, we have had two loons, one in particular came right up in front at the camp. We began to call them our pet loons and the friendliest one we named Betty, but could have been Bob for all we know.

Betty seemed to have no fear of us, coming right up to the deck steps, swimming next to our float, and just drifting around the moored kayaks with its head back resting or sleeping.

Of course we took lots of pictures and our neighbor said that Betty nipped at her ankles while she was taking pictures.

Betty also vocalized with a short, high-pitched hoot that we tried to do also to communicate with her.

We were a little worried that there might be something wrong, but the last day I remember them coming in close, there were three of them and they were very active.

So far they are back to normal, staying out in the lake away from shore. Again, very strange behavior for a wild bird. In the 40 years that we have been coming here I don't ever recall a loon coming in close enough to reach out to touch if you wanted to.

Now it's the third week in July, still cool and a family of Canada geese, eight goslings almost full size and their parents, seem to have taken up residence on the south end of the lake.

Maybe with the cool air and water they think this is Canada. Oh well, so much for Global Warming!

HUNGER WALK POTLUCK

To the Editor:

The Bethel area is sponsoring a CROP Hunger Walk in September. As a kick-off event a CROP potluck is scheduled for Friday, July 27, at 6 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church. All ages are invited; please bring a dish to share.

Amy Porter, assistant director for New England Church World Service, will share information on the work of Church World Service internationally. Recruitment folders will be distributed that night.

CROP Hunger Walks are the foundation for the work of Church World Service. Thanks to many walkers around the country, trained staff can respond to national and international disasters immediately.

Church World Service provides assistance to over 80 countries, responding also to the quiet devastation of hunger, poverty, and disease, which might not make the evening news, but shatters lives as surely as a hurricane or Tsunami. Church World Service is an interfaith relief agency with partners in many countries around the world.

In addition 25 percent of the money raised in Bethel will go to the local Good Shepherd Food Bank in Lewiston for its work with hunger relief in Maine.

The 5k (three mile) CROP Walk is Sunday, Sept. 16, at 1 p.m., with registration at the West Parish Congregational Church.

The route will cover side streets around the village of Bethel. For more information, contact co-chairs Christine Trefethen (836-2164) e-mail treflist@megalink.net or me (665-2264) janchan@megalink.net.

MOLLYCKETT DAY THANKS

To the Editor:

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to my incredibly organized predecessor, Vicki Rackliffe, and to the Mahoosuc Arts Council Board of Directors; Doug Alford, Janet Aug, Mame Connors, Helen Davies, Susan DuPlessis, Bill Frongillo, Linda Gamble, Margaret Haberman, Julie Hart, Tera Ingraham, Troy Jordan, Leslie Moore, and Julia Young.

This group went above and beyond to make my first Mollyckett Day, attending and coordinating, a great experience.

The Mahoosuc Arts Council would like to acknowledge and thank all of the individuals and businesses that contributed to making the Mahoosuc Arts Council's Mollyckett Day a wonderful day this year.

Kristi White presided over the day's events as "Princess Mollyckett." The crowning of "Princess Mollyckett" this year was done by former "Princess" Tonya Hebert 2006. All of the entrants in this year's "Good Golly Miss Molly" parade are to be commended for their efforts. Thanks to Chadbourne Tree Farms for being the parade sponsor, to Mame Connors, Julia Young, Scott Cole and Lt. Shain White, for its coordination.

Additional thanks go to Allen Connors for providing "Princess Mollyckett's" transportation and to her dynamic chauffeur, Chris Davies.

Thank you to the following businesses and organizations who sponsored the entertainment that took place all day long on the common: the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, the Bethel Area Development Corp., the Bethel Inn Resort, Mahoosuc Arts Council, Norway Savings Bank, Oxford Networks, the Rotary Club of Bethel, Savage Contracting and The Sudbury Inn for their contributions. Water pit on the North Road was brought on line, after its water had been tested and approved by a state lab.

That patchwork arrangement will probably provide sufficient water for a few months, barring an extended dry period that dries up the newly tapped stream, according to John Head, chairman of the district Board of Trustees.

But even if the stream continues to flow through the warm weather, Head said, it will not be available when the ground freezes.

Head described the current arrangement as a "very temporary fix."

Long-term, it appears almost certain the BWD will have to rely on well-water, Head said. The district is actively exploring tapping existing but currently unused wells near the village, Head said.

And it is also planning to drill a second test well at a site approximately two miles west of where the current water line reaches the North Road.

Two years ago the district drilled 26 exploratory wells, in an effort to find a water source to augment, and perhaps eventually replace Chapman Brook.

The site where the second test well will be drilled "is by far the most promising of all the test sites," Head said.

The second, larger-diameter test well is needed to reaffirm the quality of water from the site, he said, and to determine if the amount of water available is sufficient to meet the district's needs.

Costs headed up

Whatever source, or sources, of water the BWD ultimately settles on, the cost to the district's 550 customers is almost certain to increase.

Head described the arrangement that was washed away two weeks ago as "the best of all possible worlds."

Water flowed into town powered by gravity, not electricity, and was so clean the BWD was one of only a handful of above-ground systems in the state not required to filter its water.

"But wells mean pumps," Head said, "and pumps mean paying for electricity."

And paying for the new piping that will be needed to bring the water into the village.

An engineering report two years ago estimated the cost of bringing a well at the site online at $1.8 million.

While part of that cost could be offset by grants, most of the funding is likely to come in the form of loans, which would have to be paid off by district customers.

The BWD's current minimum quarterly rate of $48.90 is just about in the middle of the range for the state's 160 water-supply entities.

Head acknowledged that the rate is almost certain to increase.

And Bethel taxpayers who are not on the system will also fork up, since PUC regulations require the town to pay 30 percent of the district's budget, for fire protection (or "hydrant rental").

'Urgent need' grant

The town is also preparing to apply for an $80,000 "Urgent Need" Community Development Block Grant, to help the Water District deal with the most pressing of the damage from the flooding.

A July 18 emergency-repair estimate prepared for the district put the total cost of repairs at $416,357 (and that figure does not include watershed restoration.

The $80,000 figure in the grant application represents the total amount of money available for the entire state in the current "urgent need" budget.

The town will apply on behalf of the BWD, since only municipalities can receive CDBG funds.

The application states: "The Town of Bethel is preparing this application on behalf of the Bethel Water District (BWD). The Bethel Water District is a quasi-municipal corporation, which is totally separate from the Town of Bethel. The Town itself has no dedicated reserves to meet the financial needs of the Water District, nor is there any funds allocated in this year's budget. The Water District is small and only has $304,000 in annual revenues. Its rates are regulated by the Maine PUC, with no resulting accrual of contingency funds over time, in light of normal unanticipated expenses encountered during any given budget year. BWD's annual contingency fund allowance is only $14,500, clearly insufficient to meet this new financial obligation."

There will be a public hearing on the CDBG application Monday, Aug. 6 at 7 p.m. in the Bethel Town Office.

The balance of the money needed to deal with the damage is expected to be requested from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Town Manager Scott Cole said.

Last week Maine Gov. John Baldacci formally applied for more than a half million dollars in federal aid to help deal with damage from the July 11-12 storm.

Ponds

Several years ago variable-leaf milfoil was found in Lake Christopher in Bryant Pond.

To date it has been confined to a single small cove, in large part due to aggressive efforts by the Lakes Association to prevent its spread.

Milfoil has, however, infested all of the smaller Shagg Pond in Woodstock.

The Lakes Association annual meeting will be held in Greenwood Town Hall, Saturday, Aug. 4.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m., with coffee served from 8:30.

"It will be hands-on learning about milfoil," said association vice president Marie Bartlett.

"And we're going to ask people to go out afterward in the canoes and boats and see if it's spread to other places in the lakes," Bartlett said.

Water-level hearing

While milfoil is a serious issue, its discovery in Round Pond was not entirely unexpected, and it is certainly not the only issue on the minds of waterfront property owners. "People are just going insane about the water level," Bartlett said.

The depth of the water in the ponds is controlled in large part (at least the part man can control) by the Alder River dam.

In the years leading up to 2004, leaks in the aging dam often contributed to low water levels along the shoreline, especially during the late summer.

But in the fall of that year Greenwood completed $138,500 of repairs to the dam.

The leaks were stopped and the waters rose — to the point where the Town Office began getting complaints the water was too high.

"Littlefield Beaches complained they were losing campsites, and some other property owners complained of ice damage over the winter," said Town Manager Kim Sparks.

Town officials responded by allowing more water out of the dam, and that resulted in complaints from other property owners that the water was too low.

Bartlett said the town action was premature and risks leaving much of the shoreline unuseably mucky if the coming weeks are dry.

"We had problems last year, and now we're going into the dry season with the water level even lower," she said.

In the hope of achieving some form of generally acceptable consensus on the issue, Greenwood selectmen have set a public hearing for Monday, July 30 at 7 p.m. also in the Town Hall.

Woodstock residents are welcome to participate, Sparks said.

Milfoil "bloom"?

The milfoil and water-level issues are not unrelated.

Low water levels serve to concentrate the level of phosphates in the water, Giunta noted, and that, boosted by more sunlight reaching plants, fuels the proliferation of the invasive plant.

Flags

But the chamber found the flowers were "difficult logistically," Zinchuk said.

Because the pots had to be placed high on the poles, watering and caring for the plants was expensive, she said.

So this year, the task force subcommittee decided to give the flags a try.

The group first considered placing the flags all the way up Main Street. But it was determined they would interfere with American flags placed there for holidays, Zinchuk said.

She said she heard several comments on Mollycoddett Day that the new welcome flags look nice.

"I think they're more effective than flowers," Zinchuk said.

She said that in the fall, the committee will discuss feedback received on the flags.

Pats

against the Miami Dolphins in 1982.

The teams played in a snowstorm, and near the end of the game, Grogan moved the team into field goal range.

A Patriots grounds crew worker then used a field snowplow to clear a path for Smith to attempt a field goal.

The kick was good and the Patriots won the game 3-0, but the plowing remains a controversial bit of NFL lore.

Other players expected to take part in the Bethel fundraiser include Roland James, Pete Brock, Robert Perryman, John Williams, Vernon Crawford, David Bavaro, Ed Ellis and Steve King, according to Jim Rose of Bethel, an organizer of the event and youth football coach.

E-mail inquiry

Rose said the event came about after he found a reference on the Patriots' website to the alumni group, which routinely participates in benefit events.

He e-mailed the group, and said he was surprised when the reply came that "we'd love to come up and help."

Rose said when he made the request he wasn't sure if the players would travel the distance to this area.

But the former players will stay overnight at Sunday River Ski Resort, and many plan to bring their wives and/or children, he said.

"They're using it as a getaway," said Rose.

He said it's unusual for the players to go to locations that require an overnight stay.

Money raised will go toward the purchase of equipment for local youth football and to reduce its registration fees.

The cost for the dinner is $80 per seat to sit at a table with one of the players; $40 at a non-player table and $30 for registered youth players.

Checks payable to Mahosuc Regional Youth Football may be mailed to Dinner with the Patriots, PO Box 751, Bethel 04217.

Attendance at the noon flag football game is free. Programs with player photos and short bios will be $5.

The talk with the kids is free, Rose said. Autographs are $2 each or 10 for $15. Because this is a fundraiser the players have agreed not to sign anything until the autograph session at 2 p.m., said Rose.

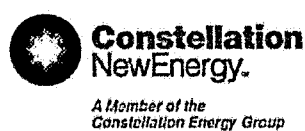

For more information on the event call 824-0524.

Bethel

Inside and Outside Mayville

By Donald G. Bennett

A neighbor reported that Mayville resident Donald Chase was a victim of a heart attack last Saturday a week ago. Chase had follow-up bypass surgery; he is a patient at Maine Medical Center but the grapevine has it that he is recovering well and expected home soon.

From The Jolly Drayman at The Briar Lea Inn: "We are holding a pub trivia quiz night, which is proving to be a lot of fun and great competition, everyone trying to outsmart each other. After a few weeks the participants decided they would like to donate $1 per person to play and then at the end of the night the winner would get to keep half of the money and the rest would be donated to a local charity of the winner's choice. Last week's winners, The Kochanek family of Pennsylvania, chose the Bethel Library to receive the money. It really is a fun evening, the question master is Helen Davies who does a great job rushing around making sure everyone hears all the questions. Of course participation is not mandatory and some of our guests have a good time watching others struggle for the answers!"

Near the end of last week, Bethel's wounded water system received a booster shot. A well in the Douglass' gravel pit just off the North Road was connected to the main water line and has been pumping effectively. BWD installed a chlorinator at the well site and was getting 36 gallons a minute. Sunday when I met Lucien Roberge while he was making the rounds, he said that the Paradise Road Reservoir was being kept full without additional trucked in water.

Monday, July 23, a well drilling company, Boart Longyear, from North Reading, Mass., will start drilling test holes at various depths to find out what the real water capacity would be if the BWD's new wells were to be driven in the Douglass' gravel pit.

It is very fitting that the town may find a new, reliable water supply on Douglass property. For many, many years, Dick Douglass's parents operated the water system when it was the Bethel Water Company. Maybe in the future, the town's water system may also be renamed to the Douglass Water District.

July 11th's big bang storm over Barker Mountain seems to have followed a traditional path for violent weather that follows a Route 2 weather avenue from the Montpelier area of Vermont to Bethel and Newry. It was just 80 years ago in 1927 that a convoy of storms ending with a cloudburst near Berlin, N.H., flooded the Bethel area, wiping out three temporary bridges and driving a dozen families from their homes. Bethel's water was not disrupted (the water main crossed under the Androscoggin River) but as one correspondent reported: travelers experienced the conveniences of the forefathers — making the Rumford road crossing of the river at Mayville by ferry.

From most accounts, Mollykett Day drew a bigger-than-usual crowd. After the parade, a quick estimate of people on the Common was two to three thousand. There were approximately 40 booths/tents of different enterprises — nearly as many booths as the Art Show's setup. The Democrats were well represented by their party's display — Cathy Newell in charge. The Fire Department was reported doing a land office business in chicken dinners at the fire station. Maybe next year someone else will buy advertising space on the town fire engines — this year's fire engine billboards worked well.

The unofficial parade judges in my part of the crowd were wowed by the cabin of balloons, a "Prof. Harold Hill" person and the stream of balloons sailing off into the air. As the Mahosuc Community Band went by us they were playing a stirring George M. Cohan number. The band is definitely a community asset — and thanks to all the members for such a fine performance.

In the afternoon, the Adirondack Chair auction drew chuckles and money for the crowd. Jewel Clark's chair went for $1,200 and the last chair of the day went for $700. Excellent work on the part of the auctioneer. After the auction came the 11th annual Fidler's Contest. While it was pleasing to see young contestants and hear some of their fine musical skill, the weakness of the audio system was a drawback to this event.

On Aug. 10 at the Bethel Historical Society, the start of Sudbury Canada Days, Van King will be the principal speaker on the general topic of minerals and gems. King is an historian and writer who is searching for a special document. He is offering a reward of a lobster dinner for two, complete with corn on the cob, good French white wine, homemade apple pie, (and he will do the appropriate dishes), if he can read and copy the diary of Dr. Hiram Francis Abbott who lived in Rumford Point at the 1776 house. Dr. Abbott (June 2, 1835 Rumford — Oct. 19, 1921 Rumford) was one of the original investors in the Newry gem tourmaline locality and he wrote about the day-to-day activities over a three-year period, 1902-1905. Contact Van King by e-mail at newryqs@rochester.rr.com.

For Bethel area history I am looking for information on whether or not local miners used the Grand Trunk/Canadian National Railroad to ship mineral loads from Bethel, West Bethel or Locke Mills. Loads of feldspar is one item that is of interest.

More dispatches from far-flung Citizen readers: "There is no doubt that I miss Ginny's 'folksy news, but I greatly appreciate your reporting of local stuff. I have followed with great interest the Mason Street sidewalk issues. I remember that my parents, Lawrence and Doris Lord, lost a piece of their property, at 27 Mason Street, including a brick outdoor fireplace, during construction of the road to Crescent Park School. (Remnants of the fireplace may remain?) In retrospect, that loss of personal property was "no big deal" at the time. And, of course, the event has had little effect on the life of my family members today." Dwight Lord.

The Mason Street parking lot was in full use for Mollykett Day. Thanks to all the residents for letting the crowd of cars, including ours, squeeze into their neighborhood. In other places, homeowners would have been out there selling parking spaces at five to ten bucks a slot.

The Sun Journal reported Bethel airport news on July 18. The airport authority expects to receive a federal grant of $140,000 from the Federal Aviation Administration. Town Manager Scott Cole was reported as listing installation of lights to illuminate the windsock, installation of a rail fence to prevent vehicles from entering the apron, installation of an automatic entrance gate, paving of the hangar access road and repair of about 1,000 feet of runway cracks as the main work orders requiring the granted funds.

Dunkin Donuts opened Monday at their new shop at the Bridge Street Big Apple. It is conveniently located for Bethel Pathway walkers who may be inclined to cheat on their diet and for snowmobile travelers in the winter. Gas prices slid back to $2.99 this last week.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

The population of the town swelled this weekend to enjoy the perfect mid-summer weather. Each evening the sunset over the lake was spectacular. All thoughts of the long, miserable week vanished.

Among the visitors to town were Jim Wixom, the Clements family, Mike, Pete and Clem Murphy, the Harris family, Beth, Bob and Emmett Hand.

Joan and Dave Miller have returned from a family trip to Greece. They were able to view the Parthenon from their hotel window. (Cool!)

Dave Tucker also spent the week at their cottage on Mill Road.

The Stanczyk family spent the weekend camping in northern Maine.

The strawberry season is over for the most part. Jen Casey traveled to the Stanhope, Canada, field and said the pickings were scarce. The heavy rains did not help the berries. Who knows, maybe the sun will keep on shining and help the raspberries and blueberries.

Congratulations to Santana Wilson, granddaughter of Sue and Dick Angevine, who again was on the dean's list at U. S. M.

Clyde Stratton is recovering in Rehab after a bad fall from his boat, injuring his back. This must be a form of prison for this very active guy.

Wedding Anniversary greetings to the Angevines and Strattons. Each couple has had many years together.

Mollykett Day this year was great. Sue Nelson, Evelyn Kenney, Sandy Wixom and Anita Harris attended. Lunch was enjoyed at the Bethel Inn.

Larry Nelson was looking for blueberries over the New Hampshire border when he came upon a flock of turkeys and partridges sharing the same blueberry patch. He was surprised to see them sharing the same space.

The kingfisher has a young one flying with her over the cove, all the while chattering loudly.

A resident bear continues to visit the area. They are no longer raiding birdfeeders because everyone stores them away at night. Then hummingbirds are not too happy with this arrangement since they are the last to leave the feeders at night and the first to arrive in the morning. The first light of dawn brings them in search of their "joy juice."

The Harry Potter mania has even reached Upton. Several of the preteens are very interested in this very popular phenomenon.

The "Bird of the Week" is the tree swallow who is already winging its way south.

The Ladies Aid members are again preparing for the late summer Craft and Bake Sale. They meet each Monday evening and enjoy each other's company while working on projects.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

Things have been a little quieter in Gilead regarding the weather.

The sun finally came out and let everyone enjoy a pleasant weekend. Since Mollycockett Day was this past weekend, it was good to have the weather cooperate.

My brother, Steve McLain, drove the Gilead fire truck in the Mollycockett Day Parade. Scott Bogart rode with him. We got down there a little before the parade and walked around. We had Sidney and Ajay with us so they had to stop and visit with the alpacas from Sunday River Alpacas on the Flat Road in West Bethel. It is great to see some people that we haven't seen for a while. We saw Hi and Mary Lou Berry (Hugh's sister) and family. While eating lunch, I noticed Gale Bell walk by, so I knew that Louann must be around the corner somewhere. Great to see them both. I saw Rita Wilson a little bit later. Sometimes, I do miss those days of working with Rita and Louann out to D. A. Wilson's.

Michele stopped by on Sunday on her way to pick raspberries at Gibson's on the North Road. Ajay had a good time but Sidney was not impressed. They also went to visit the Sunday River Alpacas in West Bethel, since Ajay and Sidney enjoyed seeing them on Mollycockett Day.

Several people who travel on the North Road have made comments on how well the repair from the flood damage is going and how hard Fred Coriveau, highway commissioner, has been working. Fred has been getting assistance from D. A. Wilson's crew. The dump truck was just delivering a load of large rocks to help build up the side of the road from the washout at the bottom of Wight's Hill when we drove by. There was even a man who approached me in Shaw's in Gorham, N.H., and suggested that I mention how well the repairs are coming and how much hard work has been put into them.

Aline Dupont got an e-mail from her son, Jarrod Crockett, Captain, Infantry Embedded Team Trainer, recently. He said that he was leaving FOB Tillman and going to head to Kabul to teach counter insurgency operations for a couple of weeks until he gets out of there. He is spending some time doing lower-risk duty before he rotates back to the States.

Gilead Fire Department

The members were hard at work on the Bethel Common selling their hamburgers, hot dogs and fries. There was quite a long line when we stopped by.

Planning Board

The regular August meeting of the Gilead Planning Board will be held on Aug. 2 in the Town Hall and will start at 7 p.m.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh

The biggest news in West Bethel this week is that Kathy and Dave DeGrutola had their baby boy sometime between last Friday and Saturday.

Word is that Kathy called the Chamber of Commerce on Friday to say that she probably wouldn't be able to work in their booth on Mollycockett Day, as she had more important things to do.

Mike and I were at the Common early on Mollycockett Day so as to watch the children's road race, in which grandchildren Andrew and Molly participated, with respectable finishing times. As soon as all the children had returned, the adult race started, and we had the pleasure of seeing our son-in-law, Kirk Siegel, come in fourth overall. Our nephew, Chris Schwarz, also ran a good race. John Applin is almost an institution in this race, so of course he ran as well.

The Parsons family was well represented in the race, with Emily, Jonathon, and Charles all running. I could swear I also saw Patti and Jeff finish, but their names didn't appear in the newspaper results.

Before the races started, I chatted with Patti Parsons, and she told me that Emily is home for just three weeks, working at the campground. Then she will be off to Hong Kong where she will be working for Mygym.com as a lead teacher in this children's program. She will work a nine-month tour and return to the States just in time to attend Thomas College graduation next spring.

REMEMBERING CINDY—The Bethel Inn Ladies Golf League last month remembered the late Cindy Beatson of Bethel, who died in September. The group dedicated a plaque and stone on the fifth tee at BI&CC to Beatson, who was a member of the league and an avid golfer.

Jane Hosterman was working at the Chamber booth, selling duck race tickets. She says that sales went well, and she enjoyed meeting lots of people and schmoozing as she sold.

Yours truly did a stint selling books at the Library book sale, and business was brisk. I was also scheduled to spend an hour selling raffle tickets for the library quilt. However, Shireen Vincent arrived early for her shift and sent me home. The drawing for that quilt will be at the Harvest Fest in September, so you still have time to purchase a ticket.

After a quick lunch, I gathered my spinning wheel and some alpaca fiber and headed back to town to demonstrate spinning at the Sunday River Alpacas booth. Jeff Erickson was holding forth at the alpaca pen, explaining the ins and outs of alpaca farming, while Maureen Libby tended the shop end of things. I could hear the comments of "Ooh, it's so soft!" and "Mom, can I have one of these stuffed alpacas?" Mo said she sold out her fingerless gloves, and I saw several ladies trying on those gorgeous hats.

While I was sitting there, Linda Westleigh and Freda Davis came by, and we had a short visit. Speaking of Freda, I saw her the other morning at the Serendipity Cafe. She was on her way to Telstar for a TV class in child development through art. Freda is head teacher at the West Bethel Children's Center and is always working to improve her skills. She told me that she also works a couple of days a week at Serendipity. Busy woman!

Mike and his friend, Mac Davis, traveled to Wilson's Camps on the Miramichi River in Doaktown, New Brunswick, last week for a few days of Atlantic salmon fishing. Mac was top rod, landing two grilse (first-year salmon), his first salmon ever. Since the salmon is the fish of 10,000 casts, it will be a while before he gets another. Mike was not so lucky, but enjoyed the casting practice, and the memories of the more than fifty salmon he has landed over the years.

The raspberries are ripe and taste oh-so-good on my breakfast granola. The garden is also yielding peas, summer squash, chard, lettuce, cherry tomatoes, parsley, basil, and dill. We have almost enough pickling cukes for a batch of dill pickles, a family favorite. This continues to be a cool and damp summer, global warming to the contrary notwithstanding. While the rest of the country broils, we shiver. Go figure.

The West Parish Congregational Church will be holding its second annual CROP Walk on Sunday, Sept. 16, at 1 p.m. The walk is 5K around the town of Bethel to raise funds for local and worldwide hunger relief. Twenty-five percent of the funds raised will go to the Good Shepherd Food Bank in Lewiston and the other seventy-five percent goes to hunger relief around the world. CROP is an acronym for Community Response to Overcome Poverty. On Friday, July 27, at 6 p.m. there will be a community potluck supper at the West Parish Congregational Church to provide more information about CROP Walk. The public is invited, please bring a dish to share. There will be a brief presentation about CROP Walk and activities for children.

Don't forget to get in touch with your news. 836-3011; dhoeh@megalink.net.

tain. The last half mile, or so, to the top is more rugged, but the trail breaks onto some open ledges in spots, revealing some nice views of the Sunday River Skiway and some of the mountains surrounding Mahoosuc Notch. We met just five hikers who were descending as we went up. Puzzle, but we never encountered another person until afternoon of the next day when we reached the summit of the east peak of Baldpate Mountain on the Appalachian Trail.

From Puzzle summit, it was an easy stretch of nearly five miles across a long valley and another easy climb to the summit of Long Mountain. Part of this area was recently logged, but the trail stays in the edge of the woods most of the way. It also pretty closely follows the town line separating Newry and the unorganized township to the east.

A mile, or so, past Long Mountain brought us to the Town Corner Campsite a short distance west of the intersection of the town lines of Newry, Grafton and the previously mentioned unorganized township. The campsite is primitive, but the tent sites are level and cleared of debris. Snuffy and I were both weary and ready to settle down for the night after a hike of about 10 miles.

The night was very quiet, with no wind and not even any airplanes passing over. Snuffy slept inside the tent with me until around 4 a.m., when he went outside and lay just a few feet away from the tent. As I was fixing my breakfast, I was surprised to see that Snuffy had a porcupine quill sticking straight out of the center of his nose; then I noticed a couple more quills in his lip on the left side of his face and quite a number of them in his chin! The biggest reason I was surprised was that I had not heard Snuffy bark, or even yelp when he got "quilled," and I never heard or saw the porcupine. I wrapped my shirt around Snuffy's face so he couldn't see my trusty Leatherman pliers coming for the quills. I got the one in his nose; no problem! Then I got one out of his lip, and Snuffy decided he wanted no more of that! I was able to hold him and remove a few more quills, but I had to quit because Snuffy was really getting mad. I decided he would wear those quills until we got home.

Snuffy moped around at the campsite and acted as if he didn't feel very well, so I decided to carry his pack for a while.

Before long, he picked up a scent of something interesting and went tearing up and down the trail ahead, into the undergrowth, back down the trail, and so forth for several minutes. I never saw any wild animals, but I decided Snuffy was well enough to carry his pack! He calmly let me strap it back on, and he was quite well mannered the rest of the hike, staying on the trail almost the entire time.

There were three more primitive campsites in the next six or seven miles along the headwaters of Wight Brook. The Lane campsite is just across the brook from the trail and has tent pads overlooking the brook. There is also a beautiful waterfall that scurries down over a huge exposed ledge just a few yards downstream. I would have liked to spend the rest of the day there, but I could only obtain cell phone contact from the mountaintops and was afraid Mona would worry if I didn't call before night. This valley was a pleasant hike until about a mile from Baldpate Mountain's East Peak. Here, the trail becomes quite steep, and I was getting tired. Snuffy kept walking ahead, but now he lay down and waited for me, rather than running back to see if I was still coming. When we finally made the top, there were eight or ten boys from Camp Tall Pines enjoying the views. They were on a three-day, two-night hike.

After a lunch of peanut butter on Ritz crackers and a 10-minute nap, I was determined to continue until I reached Route 26 in Grafton Notch before dark.

I vaguely remembered a weather forecast that said something about scattered showers on Tuesday night. Baldpate lies on a section of the Appalachian Trail that I had hiked quite a few years ago, and I couldn't remember the trail conditions. As it turns out, the first mile west from the West Peak is quite treacherous. The trail is steep, and there has been so much foot traffic that there has been a lot of erosion, caused by water and by people struggling up or down the mountain and wearing down the soil and tree roots. By taking extra care and time, I made it safely over the rough stuff, and we got to Grafton Notch trailhead about 4:45 p.m. Mona was there waiting in the car with a cold beer for me!

Altogether, the section of the Grafton Loop Trail east of Route 26 is almost 21 miles. Snuffy and I are planning to do the western half of the trail before summer is over; I think that section is somewhat shorter, but it looks rougher on the map (more mountains).

Hakala
Greetings from beautiful downtown Greenwood City.

Everyone has been busy with all sorts of errands and appointments. Never ending list of things to do and places to go. I don't think we have stopped very long at any time. Even missed seeing some of the Bo'Sox games. Now that is a down and out bad thing to do!

I have come to the conclusion that I have to start this earlier rather than later. I do get side tracked rather easily and usually it is because I'm reading articles on some subject such as recycling or some other boring item. But last Sunday, I really did get to reading and all of a sudden it was late.

played bingo at the legion, checked me in. Course we had a good time catching up with all the various goings on. Bet a few people heard us laughing and thought we were having way too much fun.

Then we stopped into Sam's for a late lunch. I was hoping for a big hug and my little sweetheart wasn't there. Maggie sure owes me a bigger one on the next visit.

Anita had her ankle checked on Wednesday morning. All healed in fine fashion; but she is having pain on the outside part and her heel. The screws have started to work out on the heel. So she will be having the iron removed in the future. She is not looking forward to it a bit. Doctor says it will be a quick outpatient procedure. Think Anita is ready to use the cane on him!

On Friday evening we attended a testimonial for Myron Pierce at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris. This was a very richly deserved honor that was long over due. As so many know, Dad, Cousin, Uncle, Mr., Brother, Colonel, Ol'man Pierce and most of all "Friend" has been all of these to so many over the years. Because of all his efforts, Maine is a much better place to live. Presentations were made from our Congressional delegation, the State Senate and House, Oxford County Commissioners and Maine Department of Veterans Affairs. Also, several veterans' organizations made presentations.

The evening included a meal of barbecue, salads and strawberry shortcake for dessert, plus the chance to talk with so many friends and relatives.

On Saturday afternoon, Anita attended a 90th birthday party for Evelyn Bean of Bryant Pond. I expect I will catch the dickens when I see Evelyn again. Many people stopped in to say hi to her and recognize the milestone. Evelyn is active in many organizations and all were present for her day. Many more Evelyn!

This fourth Sunday of July was the Pierce family reunion. The DeShons of Ryerson Hill in Paris hosted this annual event. This was the first time that I attended for one reason or another. Anita made the trek to many in the past with her father. But we all experienced a wicked good time today. All are looking forward to next year's and I hear say it will be hosted in Oxford. I do hope that Kathy and Lloyd e-mail me some of the pictures taken today. Wicked good and the weather could not be beat.

I do hear some vanilla ice cream and strawberries calling. I hear that in my good ear of course. Anita says I don't hear from the left one. I just don't know why she would say anything like that.

Keep it happening on the sunny side.

Newry

by Sylvia Harrington

The town of Newry has received grant monies from the Bureau of Corporations, Elections and Commissions. The money has enabled us to install an automated door opener and to have the handicap parking spaces at the Grange and the Town Office marked appropriately.

On the 17th my cat, Spookie, had an appointment with Dr. Stuer at the Bethel Animal Hospital. What a social event that turned out to be! There were so many people with their dogs and cats waiting for treatment it was a joy to behold how no dog on its leash was annoying any other dog or a cat in its carryall. Old friends were meeting people they hadn't seen for a while and conversing with people they had just met. Because of the number of people waiting it took longer to have your animal treated. But also because of the social nature of all of us waiting, time passed very swiftly. By the time I departed with Spookie there were few people and animals that hadn't been in and out of the treatment rooms where they had been seen and cared for.

The other day as I was filling my car at the BRTTP gas pumps, Nancy Thue and Ed Bennett stopped in. I think the last time I saw Ed was at the BRTTP and Nancy more recently in Errol.

I often see Davy Bennett at the Recycling Center. This past Wednesday he was cleaning up the mess that bears leave as they forage in the bins after the center is closed.

In all the years I have been feeding hummingbirds, this is the first time I have ever seen two birds drinking from the same port. Saturday there were eight hovering around and at least three of the ports had two birds feeding at the same time.

West Paris

by Joyce Lamb

All is quiet in West Paris, lawns are mowed and flower beds are blooming. Many kinds of lilies are nodding in the breeze. The Lambs have all gone home leaving me the only Lamb in West Paris.

Joe, Micki and Leighton Lamb have returned to Athens, Ohio. Jude Lamb and her new husband, Robert Collings, are back in Lamoine, across the bay from Bar Harbor. Allen and Myrna and son Aaron Lamb flew back to Santa Fe, New Mexico. Peggy Lamb and husband Mike Seaton are back in Augusta. Ken Lamb and children, Kyle, Catherine and Carolyn, are in South Paris. And Wendy Lamb and husband Bill Hayes flew from Portland, Maine to Portland, Ore., in one day. It took the airline two days to get them here. They live in Oakland, Ore.

What a wonderful time it was to have them all home at once to attend the greater family gathering of fifty-five. The invasion of the Lambs was a noisy group, full of laughter. They left the town quiet and sleepy again after having a grand time and mother was a bit tired, for I still doze every time I sit down.

On Sunday, July 29, The Rev. Scott Jones will be the speaker at the West Summer Universalist Church at 11 a.m. It is followed by delicious refreshments and brisk discussions. All are welcome.

Beverly and Vince Stevens were in Rangeley this past week to visit John and Linda Stevens.

A large group gathered at the Veterans' Home in South Paris to honor Myron Pierce for all the great works he has accomplished in his lifetime.

Beryl Bonney and Dorene Merrill spent time during the week at Beryl's camp on Round Pond.

On Sunday, Beryl Bonney accompanied Joyce Lamb to Augusta and picked up Peggy Lamb and Mike Seaton and toured the new Harold Alfond Center for Cancer Care. It is a bright, light, sunny place to receive cancer treatment. The large building and grounds were all beautifully done. Peggy's Garden Club had made a beautiful flower garden along the walking path. Several granite benches were placed along this path. Healthy refreshments were available consisting of bottled water and small bags of sliced apples.

Muffin is enjoying the quiet after so much confusion. She did not care for the active two-and-a-half-year-old. She has claimed the bow window in the kitchen so she can observe the cars and birds. This nice weather she wants the window open to smell the fresh air.

"I like working at Rumford Hospital because it provides me the opportunity to work in a rural community hospital.

I split my time between CMMC, a Level II trauma facility and Rumford Hospital, which offers me the best of both worlds. What I like about Rumford is the change of pace and the friendly and supportive staff.

What Central Maine Medical Family brings to Rumford is an exceptional group of well-trained emergency physicians, all of whom are certified by the American Board of Emergency Medicine. There are few rural community hospitals in the country that have such a fine group of emergency physicians.

Rumford is fortunate, too, to have a newly renovated and expanded state-of-the-art emergency department."

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Andrea Savitz of Andover Service Circle (ASC) wants to remind everyone that the Community Calendar, the Circle's major fundraiser, is on sale. Also, if early sales are any indication, ASC's 50/50 is likely to bag the winner a sum exceeding last Olde Home Days prize money of $497. Calendar orders and purchase of 50/50 chances can be secured through any ASC member or by telephoning Judy Michaud at 392-1221.

Hopefully by Thanksgiving, residents of Andover will be able to look at a newly renovated Grange sign on Andover Town Hall. This renovation will be ASC's next gift back to the town of Andover. ASC has authorized Dave Clifford to do the work. Dave has requested a photograph of the sign as it once was. If you have a photo to lend the Circle, please contact Judy Michaud at 392-1221.

Additionally, on Saturday, Sept. 8, using the CEB location of the Andover Congregational Church, there will be a pie contest sponsored by "Best of America by Horseback." Judging will take place from 3 to 5 p.m. Winners will be announced at 6 p.m. This group has graciously asked ASC to host the event. The Circle will supply one ASC judge to the "Horseback" judge panel and will receive proceeds of pie sales after the contest. Watch for pie contest event flyers. In the meantime all potential pie-baking contestants can contact Judy Michaud at 392-1221. Lastly, Anne Marie Mahar reports that the ASC's third annual Andover Olde Home Days Road Race is picking up a real following. Sponsorship has been good with more sponsors always being welcome, each receiving a commemorative T-shirt. The race will take place at 8 a.m. Aug. 4. All profits will go to ASC to assist area families in need. Interested parties can contact Brianne Bailey at 392-1475 or Anne Marie Mahar at 364-3180 for registration forms, or they can plan to come early the day of the event to register (7 a.m. plus at Andover Elementary School).

Gerry Savitz, of the Olde Home Days Committee, reminds gardeners that the Best Garden Contest registrations are now available at Andover Town Office, Andover Library and some of Andover's retail locations. Robert Swain has given the Olde Home Days Committee permission for a new garden contest category, the Violet Swain Award for Flowers of One Species. Paper registrations and phone entries (with Gerry at 392-1020) will be accepted.

The 56th annual Flower Show is Saturday, Aug. 4, in the Andover Historical Society building. Following the theme for the weekend — "The river runs through it." Categories are: 1) Rands Mill, 2) The covered Bridge swimming, 3) Beautiful Ellis River, 4) Fishing the Ellis River, 5) Ellis River - Flood of 1936, 6) Stoney Brook, 7) Kayaking The Ellis, 8) Walking the Ellis River Banks, 9) Gathering Fiddleheads, 10) Haying the Ellis Meadow, 11) In memory of someone special, 12) Arrangements by professionals.

Entries will be received from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Friday evening, Aug. 3. For further details, pick up handouts at the local businesses. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnston arrived July 20 for a month's stay visiting with friends and relatives. It's great to be home in Maine!

Happy birthdays to Jacob Putnam on the 26th, Jason and Austin Buck on the 29th, and Brianne Vitale on the 31st.

And a special Birthday on the 27th to my daughter, Sarah Linnea, 14 long years!

The Transfer Station will be closed on Olde Home Day this year, Saturday, Aug. 4. Last year only two people came on Saturday.

However, on Sunday, Aug. 5, there will be extended hours from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. We appreciate everyone's cooperation and remember — Recycling saves our tax dollars!

Hanover

The time is upon us — the Gardner Roberts Memorial Library Dedication and Celebration will take place Saturday, July 28, starting at 2 p.m.

The event will begin with the Jane Taylor Memorial Dedication. Mrs. Taylor's family donated the funds needed to complete the library-moving project. Hopefully lots of folks will attend the celebration that will include lunch (hot dogs, hamburgers, chips and soft drinks), a silent auction will entice your desires for luxury items and not so luxurious junk. Beginning at 3 p.m. and lasting until 7 p.m. Brandon Moore and his band will entertain. The Gardner Roberts Memorial Library Dedication and Hanover Day Event will be Saturday, July 28, rain or shine.

Also at the Select Board meeting, Bob Fortin reported on solid waste and recycle reports. Donna Worcester, president of the Gardner Roberts Memorial Library, gave a report on the progress of the library-moving project. At the end of her report, Bob Fortin presented her with a $400 check for the library from Bob and his family. He said the funds were part of the stipend he received as a Hanover Planning Board member. Also, the Select Board decided to look at the condition of Davis Road to see if repairs could improve the road. The heavy rains that did significant damage in neighboring towns left Hanover relatively unscathed. "We were very fortunate," said one of the selectmen while the others wholeheartedly agreed.

Bob and Cynthia Smith of Damariscotta have been staying at Rocky Retreat at Howard Pond while Barbara and Irv Robinson are on a bicycle trip to Colorado.

Bruce and Shirley Powell recently traveled to San Francisco, Calif., to attend two weddings.

Bryant Pond

by Alice Hoyt

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, July 16, with 16 present. State Deputy Kathy Lorrain and her husband were present. Inspection was held. The Charter was draped in memory of Russell Yates. Program: opening thought by Bertha DeHaas; opening song; Alice Hoyt received her 25-year certificate; reading by Pat Breame; song, "Great is Thy Faithfulness"; reading, Alice Hoyt; closing song, "Let There be Peace on Earth." Deputy Lorrain spoke briefly. Next meeting will be Aug. 6.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening is prayer meeting at 6:30. On Saturday, July 28, at 9 a.m. is Ladies Brunch at the fellowship hall, and Sunday, July 29, being the fifth Sunday, there will be a dinner following the morning service and an afternoon service instead of evening service. For the dinner, if your last name is A-H, please bring a dessert and your last name I-Z, bring a main dish.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Aug. 2, at the home of Joan and Gordon Morgan, Greenwood. Each one is to bring a dish to share—salad, sandwiches, dessert or whatever to eat and an item for What's It? Maybe something you have others may or may not know what it is or what it is used for.

Woodstock Historical Society

The Historical Society Museum has a few books on plants and gardens. There are also some on wildlife, fish and birds. Years ago Lake Christopher was famed for fishing. Presidents Grant and Coolidge, as well as Mrs. Ringling of Barnum and Bailey Circus came here for that. Birch Villa, the summer music camp, was also known as a fishing mecca. Locals have long enjoyed hunting in surrounding woods and fields too. Wild fowl abound as well.

On Aug. 11 at 6 p.m. the Woodstock Historical Society will have its annual picnic. Members will bring materials for Italian sandwiches.

The July meeting featured a video called "A Slice of Maine." The following Saturday fundraising was concluded successfully.

Mary and Larry Billings watched the museum recently. Dr. David Willard visited. He does every year. In August a lovely print of a deer will be on display in the museum; nothing is more representative of Maine than the graceful form of a deer in the wild.

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

As August approaches, I begin to see tassels on the corn. There are even small ears developing. I cannot wait until they grow bigger and we can eat them. For now, we are still eating radishes, lettuce and spinach, but have added to that peas and green beans. David is looking for a dilly bean recipe. We are also hoping to can/freeze more food this year. Frozen strawberries are just not enough to carry us through the winter. To that end, Dave has been rototilling and I have been weeding the garden for maximum production. The squashes/cukes continue to have good looking plants, but fruits are not apparent.

On other fronts, I went to Mollycoddett Day last Saturday. Although it was great to see what was there, after a few hours I was ready to call it a day.

It was great to see old friends, but the walking was beyond me. I realized that the new fire station is quite a walk from the common and not easy for the older people, the less physically-abled, etc., to make the walk. It meant a smaller turnout at the chicken bar-b-que. It is an interesting dilemma. I went for the sausages and called it a day. I was able to see friends Lynn and Bronson who I had not seen recently. I had hoped to return for the fiddlers' contest, but David was tired after working all day and we went home.

This Saturday, July 28, is a big day. The Waterford/Stonham Lion's Club is holding their annual yard sale. It will be at the Waterford Town Office from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The proceeds will go to Jeremy Baker, to help with his medical bills following his home building accident. He is now in rehab. We are all hoping for the best.

Also on Saturday, there is a magic show for the young people at Waterford Library in the Flats (routes 35/37). The show begins at 11 a.m. and lasts about one hour. The theme is "Get a Clue."

On Thursday, the Mountain Poets have their monthly reading. All are welcome to come and read or just listen. It is at the Fare Share Commons on Main Street in Norway from 7 to 9 p.m. FMI: call Lisa at 743-9808 or Rockie at 743-0583.

At Deertrees in Harrison this week: on Thursday, the 26th, there is a public reception, "The Harmonious Order of the Parts."

It is an exhibition of painting, drawing and sculpture at the Backstage Gallery at Deertrees. FMI: 583-6747. The gallery is open Tuesday through Sunday.

On Friday, the 27th, The April Verch Band will perform. She is an expert fiddler, step dancer and vocalist. It begins at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $16.

On Saturday, the Bill and Bo Winiker Quartet will be performing, featuring jazz savant pianist Tony Deblois. Tickets are $20 and available at Books N Things in Bethel; Cool Moose, Bridgton; Lovell Center Market; Country Sleigh, Naples; and Fare Share in Norway. FMI: 583-6747.

Hope you can take that all in. The weather promises to be great.

Thought for the week "A balanced diet is chocolate in both hands."

Albany

by Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. Summer is trudging along, and, despite the dreary days we've had, folks have been managing to enjoy the outdoors.

Tonight is the second Church Supper at the Albany Congregational Church on Hunts Corner Road. Seating is at 5:30 p.m. and there usually is a second seating afterward.

The Albany Improvement Association will be having its annual summer yard sale on Aug. 4 at the Albany Town Hall. They are probably still accepting donations, so, please contact Buzzie at 824-2568 or Norma Salway at 824-2305 if you have any good, useable items to donate.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

From

Mahoosuc Arts Council

The 25th Annual Western Oxford County Frog Jumping Contest on Mollycoddett Day was another great success.

In honor of the 25th Anniversary the contest founders, Pete and Vicki Rackliffe, donated prize money that increased the first place prize to $25.

Ninety-six frogs and kids vied for the prize money. A tie between Brian Schroy and Andrew Perham's frogs split first and second place with a distance of 115 inches. Third place went to Anthony Pinto whose frog jumped 112 inches. A prize for the shortest distance, 21 inches, was awarded to Madeline Williams.

Fourth place was a tie between Octavia Morin and Madison Pretice, and fifth went to Mark Maguire.

"Good Golly Miss Molly" parade trophy winners for Best Theme were first place, Mahoosuc Kids Association Summer Adventure Programs's "Good Golly Miss Molly," second place, Mouse and Bean Internet Café's "Superman at the Drive-In," and third place, Bethel Outdoor Adventure and Campground's "Forget the Blues, Go Green! Reduce, Reuse, Recycle!"

The 11th annual Old Time Fiddlers Contest results: Open first place went to Sandy Hatch, in second place was Roger Malcolm. Senior first place went to Bill Scott and second place went to Jim Roy.

A tie for third place led to a fiddle off between David Carr and Lee Deyette. The competition was close as David Carr took third place by just one point.

Junior first place went to Jasmine Chick, in second was Curren Mackie-Malcolm, and in third place was Mariah Bergeron.

Jr. Jr. first place went to Dalton Binnette, and second place went to Bethel's own Rachael Goldberg.

From

Andover Olde Home Days Committee

It's that time of year again for another fun-filled day in Andover. Keep Saturday, Aug. 4, open and join the town as it celebrates another Andover Olde Home Days.

The celebration begins a little earlier in the week with a flower and garden contest. Friday night, come and listen to music on the common. Remember to bring your lawn chair. Sit, relax and listen to some good music while enjoying the camaraderie of new and old friends.

Saturday has games, a horseshoe tournament, arm wrestling, karaoke, crafts, a parade, a bike and doll carriage parade, car show, absolutely something for people of all ages!

On Sunday, enjoy the Ellis River Riders Horse Show.

This year's theme is: "A River Runs Through It." The schedule is on Page 14.

From

West Paris Public Library

Friends of the West Paris Public Library invite crime solvers, cleaners, and those who enjoy a humorous tale to attend a book reading on Aug. 4. Authors Jerome and Suzanne Preisler will read from "The Scene of the Crime," the first book in their Crime Solvers mystery series which came out at the beginning of the summer. The reading and book signing will take place at 2 p.m. at the West Paris Grange on Church Street. This follows the 9 a.m. to noon Friends' annual used book sale at the library on Main Street.

Under the pseudonym Suzanne Price, Jerome Preisler and his wife Suzanne are the co-authors of "Scene of the Crime" (Signet Books) the first in a series of comedic mysteries featuring thirtyish, recently widowed cleaning genius and amateur sleuth Sky Taylor. Jerome is also the author of two dozen other novels and works of nonfiction, including the New York Times best selling Tom Clancy's Power Plays series. With co-author Kenneth Sewell, he has completed a narrative history of the USS Scorpion to be published in hardcover by Simon and Schuster in April 2008. Also forthcoming from Pocket Books in June 2008 is his original novel "Nevada Rose," based on the long-running CSI television series.

For more information, please call the library at 674-2004.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

OPTIONS THAT UPGRADE YOUR INVESTMENT

Buying a house under construction gives you the opportunity to customize your new home by adding "extra" features. When deciding on special features, consider how they will affect the re-sale value of the home and whether these additions will over-improve your home.

Money spent to improve and modernize kitchens and bathrooms is almost always a good investment. Corian countertops, side-by-side refrigerators, quality flooring and whirlpool tubs are good ideas. Hardwood floors in the living and dining rooms are a plus when selling a home. If the builder's standard flooring for the foyer is linoleum, it is definitely worth upgrading to wood or ceramic. And even if you don't enjoy sitting around a roaring fireplace, the next owner may want one. If you plan to finish the basement later, you may want to "rough-in" the plumbing for a bath during the original construction. You should consider your own enjoyment--and what will increase the value of your home when you sell.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
